Looking for "software", "software-crack" and similar keywords to get this all sorted out. Also relevant: A: I tried this tool on that website and I got a hit: Find out here is what the code is doing: findstr /m /s "http://odp.c.s.com" "%-dpx0" /s /c:0 This one finds the binary and the extension and then outputs the match: findstr /m /s "http://odp.c.s.com" "%-dpx0" /s /c:0 And this one finds the file size and outputs the extension, file size and match. dir /b /a-d *.zip | findstr /c:"[0-9][2]\s[0-9][2]\s[0-9][6]" I still have no idea if the ads are some sort of tamper proofing and if there is some sort of attempt at keeping the files unreadable. But my bet is that the URL is generated randomly to keep people from knowing where they get the file from. 3e33713323
